

The new T5

The new Volkswagen T5 launches with a highly competitive package

- Transporter van entry level pricing of $46,950
- Additional spec levels over previous Transporter
- Benchmark fuel economy, emission levels and technology

Backed by a 60+ year history in producing Transporter vehicles, Volkswagen New Zealand is launching the new 2010 T5 model range with a more competitive offering to the local marketplace than ever before.

The new T5 Transporter van range featuring common rail 2.0l TDI engine technology will be fronted by its entry level 250Nm SWB derivative at the extremely attractive price point of $46,950. Not to be overlooked is the high spec levels in this model, which will feature ESP, Climatic air conditioning and dual rear sliding doors as standard equipment.

The spec levels are complimented by the technology and product highlights on offer across the new Transporter range; Euro 5 emission standards, fuel economy from 7.2 l/100km (combined), CO² emission combined from 190 g/km, 250/340/400Nm engine alternatives, optional DSG transmission and 4Motion all-wheel drive technology.

The passenger derivative of the T5 model range is the 7 seat Multivan, a luxury people mover. Pricing for the Multivan starts at $68,500 rrp for the 340Nm DSG model. Standard spec includes 7 seats (rear seats on fully adjustable rail system), dual front airbags, alarm, ESP, alloys, air con, park aid and privacy glass.

Volkswagen Media Release – New Zealand

January 25th 2010 – VWMR0110

Grant Doull, Manager of Commercial vehicles for Volkswagen New Zealand is very pleased with the launch offering for the new T5 model range; “To be able to offer the market an extremely well spec’d entry level model Transporter with ultra competitive pricing is a real coup for us. We are confident the market will appreciate both our entry level offering as well as the extended range of vans we can supply for those who require a transport solution that may be a little outside of the norm (ie. DSG transmission, SWB/LWB and mid roof/high roof options, customised factory fit requirements, 4Motion all wheel drive, etc.)”

For further details on the New Zealand range and pricing will follow, please refer to the spec sheets attached.
